Contents

Acknowledgements xi
Preface xiii

Chapter 1: The Environmental Problem and Crisis: Biblical Perspectives on Ecology 1
1. Etymology and Definition 1
2. The Origin and History of Ecological Development 3
   2.1. Eco-Theology: A Glimpse of Development Throughout the Ages in the Church's History 5
      2.1.1. The Early Church Fathers 5
      2.1.2. The Middle Ages 7
      2.1.3. Reformatory Age 8
   2.2. India's Ecological History 9
3. Ecology in Dialogue with Religion 12
4. Causes of Ecological Crisis 14
   4.1. Population and Consumption 14
   4.2. Mechanical and Technological Developments 17
   4.3. Patriarchal and Hierarchical Model 19
   4.4. Irresponsible Economic Developments 20
5. The Ecological Crisis 22
   5.1. Climate Change 23
   5.2. Pollution of Land, Air and Water 28
      5.2.1. Land Pollution 28
      5.2.2. Water Pollution 29

5.2.3. Air Pollution 30
5.3. Deforestation 30
6. Environmental Justice 32
7. The Ecumenical Responses 33
8. Contemporary Ecological Philosophies and Concepts 37
8.1. Population Ecology 37
8.2. Social Ecology 38
8.3. Deep Ecology 39
8.4. Shallow Ecology 41
8.5. Eco-Feminism 41
8.6. Gaia Hypothesis 43
9. Biblical Perspective on Ecology 44
10. Ecology and Christian Doctrines 47
10.1. Eco-Christology 47
10.1.1. Kenotic Christology: Philippians 2:6-11 49
10.1.2. The Cosmic Christology: Col. 1:15-20 50
10.2. Eco-Pneumatology 52
10.3. Eco-Theodicy 55
10.4. Eco-Eschatology 58

Chapter 2: Historical, Theological and Homiletic Development 65

1. Origin and Early Development of Preaching 65
2. The Patristic Age (A.D. 70-430) 68
2.1. Background 68
2.2. Theological Development 69
2.3. Preaching and its Significance 71
2.3.1. Factors That Led to the Development of Christian Preaching 73
3. The Early Medieval Age (A.D. 430-1095) 74
3.1. Background 74
3.2. Theological Development 76
3.2.1. Christian Theology in the East 76
3.2.2. Christian Theology in the West 77
3.3. Development of Preaching and its Significance 78
3.3.1. Methods of their Preaching 80

4. The Scholastic Age (A.D. 1095 – 1361) 82
4.1. General Survey of the Epoch 82
4.1.1. The Crusades 82
4.2. Theological Development 84
4.3. Homiletic Development and Significance 85
4.3.1. The Monastic Preaching 86
4.3.2. Characteristics of the Preaching 87
5. The Reformatory Age (1361 – 1572) 88
5.1. Context 88
5.1.1. The Renaissance 89
5.1.2. Martin Luther and the Reformation 90
5.2. Theological Position 91
5.3. Homiletic Development and its Significance 91
5.3.1. Reformation and Preaching: Its Relationship and Influence 93
5.3.2. Method of Preaching 94
6. The Early Modern Age (A.D. 1572 – 1738) 94
6.1. Background 94
6.2. Theological Development 95
6.3. Preaching after the Reformation: Its Significance 97
6.3.1. The Roman Catholic Preaching after the Reformation 98
6.3.2. The Protestant Preaching 99
7. The Evangelical Age (A.D. 1738 – 1900) 100
7.1. Background 100
7.2. Theological Development 101
7.3. The Place of Preaching and its Significance 102
7.3.1. The Roman Catholic Preaching in the 18th Century 102
7.3.2. The Protestant Preaching in the 18th Century 103
7.3.3. Protestant Preaching in the 19th Century 105
7.3.4. Roman Catholic Preaching in the 19th Century 107
7.3.5. Type of Preaching in the 18th and 19th Century 108

8. The Post-Modern Age (A.D. 1900 Till Today) 109
8.1. Background 109
8.2. The Position of the Church 110
8.3. Development of Pentecostalism and Charismatic Movement 111
8.4. The Field of Theology 112
8.5. Preaching in the Post-Modern Christianity: It's Significance 114
9. An Overall Evaluation of the Homiletic Development in the Various Continents 117
9.1. The North American Continent 117
9.2. The African Continent 120
9.3. The Asian Continent 122
9.4. The Latin American Continent 124

Chapter 3: An Overview of Homiletic Theories 127

1. The 'Word:' It's Functionality in Preaching 127
2. The New Hermeneutics 129
3. The New Homiletics 130
3.1. Phenomenological Theory 132
3.2. Narrative Theory 133
3.3. Conversational Theory 135
3.4. Imaginative Theory 137
4. Post Liberal Homiletics 137
5. Homiletics in German Speaking Europe 139
6. Recent Homiletical Theories 143
6.1. Deconstruction Theory: John S. McClure 143
6.2. Biblical Literary Theory: Thomas G. Long 144
6.3. Aesthetic Theory: Grozinger Albrecht 145
6.4. Contextual Theory: Alfred Stephen 146
7. Rhetoric 147
7.1. Aristotle (ca. 384-322 B.C.) 148
7.2. Cicero (ca. 106-43 B.C.) 149
7.3. Quintilian (ca. 40-95 A.D.) 150
7.4. Rhetoric and Homiletics: Its Influence and Relationship 150

7.5. The State of Rhetoric and Homiletics from 18th Century Onwards 151
7.6. Contemporary Movements: Search for Balance Between Rhetoric and Homiletics 153

Chapter 4: Towards Eco – Homiletic: Crafting Narrative Preaching 157

1. Major Ecological Themes for Preaching 158
1.1. Dominion 158
1.2. Eco - Justice 160
1.3. Stewardship 163
1.4. Creation Care 166
1.5. Status of the Creation 167
1.6. Eco-Theodicy 168
1.7. Theocentric Ecology 170
1.8. Earth is Sacred 171
1.9. Love and Harmony 171
2. Homiletic Concern 171
3. Towards Eco-Homiletics 173
3.1. The Lotha Naga Eco-Theology 176
3.1.1. The Lotha Nagas Cosmo-Centric Spirituality 176
3.1.2. Nature is Sacred 177
3.1.3. Nature is Life 177
3.1.4. Creation as Divine Manifestation 178
3.1.5. The Lotha Naga Land Ethics 179
3.2. Retrace 181
3.3. Repossess 184
3.4. Re-narration 186
3.4.1. The Functionality or the Operational Mode of Re-narration 188
3.4.1.1. The Role of Imagination and Creativity in Narrative Preaching 192
3.4.1.1.1. Linguistic Imagination 194

Conclusion 197
Bibliography 203